COURT DECISION FATAL TO STATE ROAD AID.

A severe blow was dealt road construction in the State of Kentucky when Judge Gus Thomas, of the Court of Appeals decided that Hopkins county had no authority to lend the State $150,000 out of its bond issue for the use in construction of the Dixie Beeline in that county, according to Joe S. Boggs, State Highway Examiner. As a result of this decision Mr. Boggs thinks that fifty-six of the sixty-five projects designated by the last Legislature as the primary system of State highways will not be constructed unless steps be taken for an enlargement of the revenues of the road department and the levying of some form of tax that is constitutional.
